

Name: James O'May

Submission:

I suggest that the new cultural policy should place a high priority on support for Australian Aboriginal languages, both in preservation of languages that are likely to be lost and in supporting the teaching of these languages by the education systems of the various state and territory systems. Support for Aboriginal culture should be a key element of our cultural policy and language is surely one of the cornerstones of culture.